JUDGE:

We are working now on the major speeches you will be delivering in July and would like your comments on our planned approach. You will be speaking to the newly promoted members of the Senior Intelligence Service and their families on 14 July; and to the Eighth Circuit Judicial Conference in Minneapolis on 21 July.

In your last address to the Senior Intelligence Service, you spoke about the changes in the Soviet Union and how those events would challenge all offices in the Agency. In the last six months there has been a continuing dialogue in government circles and the media about leadership. We suggest that you address the importance of leadership as it applies specifically to the Agency, recognizing both past accomplishments and the leadership initiatives that made those accomplishments possible. You would also discuss the responsibilities of leadership, building on the remarks you made last October at the Off-Site for the Agency's top managers. In those remarks, you spoke of a "quality of management and understanding that makes it possible for the people here in this room to fulfill the mission of the Central Intelligence Agency throughout the world."

In your last address to the Eighth Circuit, you spoke of the significant changes that had occurred in the 14 months since you had been Director of Central Intelligence. Because you have recently indicated an interest in continuing to discuss the changes in the Soviet Union, we propose a topic for the Eighth Circuit that would build on the Soviet theme. A topic we think might interest this audience would be a discussion of the evolving Soviet legal and political reforms and whether these changes are moving the Soviet leadership and society toward a "rule of law." Specifically, we would compare the rights guaranteed under the U.S. Constitution with the rights being introduced in the Soviet legal system. Such a "scorecard" may give us another way of evaluating perestroika.

We would appreciate any further thoughts you have on these speeches.

SIS looks good
Some items cd
be more briefly
referred to than others.

Eighth Cir. worries
me -

- How did this program
come about - ?
- I don't want
a puff piece
for Gorbachev -

Maybe we should broaden to include China & current regional efforts.
